

Daniel Gruenbaum

Project Manager
Delaware North Companies

Daniel Gruenbaum is a project manager for Delaware North Companies Parks and Resorts, the NASA contractor operating the Kennedy Space Center Visitor Complex (KSCVC).

In this capacity, Daniel is a key member of the creative team responsible for planning and producing the various exhibits and displays that tell the NASA story to the many visitors of KSCVC.

Daniel joined the KSCVC team in 1998 and during his tenure, he has been instrumental in expanding the guest experiences including participating in the development of the first immersive simulation, the Shuttle Launch Experience and contracting the first live show presented at KSCVC, Astronaut Auditions. To support the NASA story, Daniel has initiated an active artifact collecting program.

Prior to joining the KSCVC team, Daniel managed a space exhibition that traveled to eight different countries on three continents. Daniel has been awarded two NASA Group Achievement Awards.
